Section Activities

2014 Section Cocktail Reception

Friday, Jan 3, 2014, at 6:30 p.m.

KPMG's Manhattan Offices, near the Hilton Midtown
345 Park Avenue Tel: 212-758-9700

The reception is generously hosted by the Seton Hall health law faculty, together with Seton Hall health law alums who work in the provider section of KPMG.

This reception is in lieu of the Section Breakfast, typically held on Saturday morning during the conference. The Section Business meeting will be conducted at the end of our Section Program on Saturday afternoon.

To give us a sense of numbers for the reception, please RSVP to Elizabeth Weeks Leonard's assistant, Shawn Lampere, at shawlan@uga.edu if you plan to attend. Please mention "AALS" in the subject line.

2014 Section Programs:

This panel will explore the effects of the environment on health in western nations and the role that sustainability initiatives play with regard to wellness. The panel will be interdisciplinary, broadly spanning topics in health, environmental, and animal law and policy as well as public health, land use, and urban planning. Proceedings will be published in the Journal of Law, Medicine, & Ethics.

Letter from the Chair

It has been an honor to serve as Chair of the Section on Law, Medicine & Health Care this past year. When I entered the academy ten years ago, I frequently was asked "What is health law?" or "Is there a casebook for that?" Last year, a new cadre of legal scholars discovered and joined our field, at least for the limited purpose of weighing in on the Supreme Court's landmark decision in National Federation of Independent Business v. Sebelius. This year, health law became the focal point of nationwide debate that brought the federal government to a standstill. New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg's Big Gulp Ban made "public health paternalism" not mere esoteric theory but front-page news.

Nowadays, one would be hard pressed to find a member of the public unaware of laws regulating health, or health care as a critical public policy concern. For a law school not to offer a health law course would be almost unthinkable. It seems we have arrived. The challenge for health lawyers going forward, then, is not so much establishing our legitimacy but marshaling our expertise to inform the future of health law both inside and outside the academy.

This year's Annual Meeting programs rise to that challenge. First, Chair-Elect Ani Satz has convened an impressive, interdisciplinary group of scholars to discuss sustainability and health. The topics transcend not only health law but also public health law, environmental law, and animal law, demonstrating the centrality of health and wellness to forward-thinking issues of global resource allocation.

Second, Section Member and Chair of the Section on Nonprofit Law & Philanthropy, Rob Katz, will lead some of our field's brightest minds in a discussion of the role of nonprofits under the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, showcasing the ongoing need for specialized, technical knowledge to guide federal health reform implementation. Both proceedings will be captured for posterity in special editions of the Journal of Law, Medicine & Ethics and Indiana Health Law Review, respectively.

In addition to encouraging your attendance at the terrific panels, I am delighted to invite you to the Section's cocktail reception on Friday evening. The Executive Committee has received feedback over the years regarding the expense, early hour, and limited menu options associated with our customary Saturday morning breakfast. After deliberation, we decided to offer a different opportunity for informal networking and catching up with colleagues. This year, the Seton Hall Law health law faculty, together with the Seton Hall health law alums working in the provider section of KPMG, graciously agreed to host the reception. The Section business meeting will be conducted immediately following the Saturday afternoon panel. Please join us Friday evening and join me in thanking Seton Hall, especially Kathleen Boozang, and KPMG for generously sponsoring this event.

Finally, I would like to thank the other Section officers for their hard work and guidance this year: Past Chair, Joan Krause, for her wise counsel and sharp institutional memory; Immediate Past Chair, Jennifer Bard, for representing the under-represented in both her scholarship and service to the Section; Chair-Elect, Ani Satz, for her vision in assembling the panel and tireless assistance in Section governance; Thad Pope for bringing the historically thankless task of newsletter preparation into the cyber era; At Large Member, Elizabeth Pendo, for similar streamlining of the officer nominations process; and At Large Member, Katharine Van Tassel, for serving as unofficial Section blogger at Health Law Prof Blog and Bill of Health. It was an honor to serve with all of you.

With warmest regards,
Elizabeth Weeks Leonard
University of Georgia School of Law

Significant Professional Activities:

The International Campaign for a Framework Convention on Global Health. The FCGH is a proposed global treaty that would be based in the right to health and aimed at closing national and global health equities. A campaign for the treaty first initiated by an international coalition, the Joint Action and Learning Initiative on National and Global Responsibilities for Health (<http://www.jalihealth.org>), is being expanded to encompass all supporters of this ambitious proposal, from civil society to academics, governments, and international organizations, including UNAIDS. This next stage, the International Campaign, will seek to gain broad civil society support for the FCGH, as well as the support of governments, while continuing the process of developing the content of this treaty, with its immense potential to advance the right to health for all people.

Case Western Reserve University School of Law, The Law-Medicine Center

Program News:

Case Western Reserve University has introduced an S.J.D. in Health Law. The S.J.D. in Health Law is designed to give lawyers the opportunity to complete the highest degree in law in the specialized field of Health Law. It is designed primarily for those who wish to work in academia, research, or health policy. The program is open only to candidates who have completed a J.D. or equivalent law degree and who demonstrate the ability to successfully engage in rigorous scholarly work by holding a Master of Laws (LL.M.) degree in Health Law or by having other suitable academic or work experience.

S.J.D. students at Case Western Reserve University School of Law will benefit from the law school's presence within a major research university with extensive programs and resources in the fields of medicine, health policy, health care management, public health, and bioscience. S.J.D. candidates will study and interact with faculty and staff at the law school and other graduate and professional schools at Case Western Reserve University, with J.D. students, and with other graduate and professional students, thereby enriching the academic experience for both the candidates and their academic colleagues.

Oliver C. Schroeder Scholar-In-Residence Lecture, October 10, 2013

An integral part of the Law-Medicine Center, the Oliver C. Schroeder, Jr. Scholar-in-Residence honors individuals who have made significant contributions in the fields of health law and policy. It was established in 1986 with generous gifts from law school alumni, friends, and colleagues of Professor Schroeder in recognition of his dedicated service to the School of Law.

The 2013 Schroeder Scholar was David Blumenthal, MD, MPP, President of the Commonwealth Fund, a health care philanthropy based in New York City. Dr. Blumenthal delivered a lecture entitled, "Rationing v Reengineering: the 21st Century Challenge for American Health Care." Prior to becoming the president of the Commonwealth Fund Dr. Blumenthal was the White House National Coordinator for Health Information Technology.

Panelists discuss development and implementation of the Affordable Care Act at Elena and Miles Zaremski Law-Medicine Forum

Panelists with expertise in medicine, insurance, government, and health care finance assembled to discuss the passage and implementation of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act at the Elena and Miles Zaremski Law Medicine Forum on September 26, 2013. With Healthcare Marketplaces going live on October 1, the topic generated lively discussion and interest from the audience.

Panelists explained how the current law was debated and passed in Congress and how its implementation will affect Americans at all income levels, at all ages, and degrees of health. Also discussed was the formula used to calculate costs and benefits to each American under the new law.

The forum was sponsored by Miles Zaremski, a 1973 graduate of Case Western Reserve School of Law who is a health care attorney, respected national columnist and one of the foremost experts in the country on health care policy and law. Mr. Zaremski also served as a panelist. Other panelists included Patricia Decensi, Vice President and Assistant General Counsel, Medical Mutual; J.B. Silvers, PhD, John R. Mannix Medical Mutual of Ohio Professor of Healthcare Finance, Case Western Reserve University Weatherhead School of Management and Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine; and Joseph White, Department Chair, Luxenberg Family Professor of Public Policy, Professor of Epidemiology and Biostatistics and Director of the Center for Policy Studies, Case Western Reserve Department of Political Science.

Sick and Tired of Being Sick and Tired: Putting an End to Separate and Unequal Health Care in the United States 50 Years after the Civil Rights Act of 1964

With the enactment of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, federal law mandated equal access to health care regardless of race. Fifty years later, access to health care remains separate and unequal because of racial bias. As a result, racial disparities in health care persist. The 2014 Law-Medicine Symposium will commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act by challenging the status quo of separate and unequal health care in the United States.

The program will feature legal, medical and public health scholars, practitioners, policy makers, and community leaders who will analyze the continuation of separate and unequal health care in the United States and develop concrete solutions to put an end to this system. The Law-Medicine Symposium will be held Friday, March 28, 2014 from 8:30 a.m. – 5:30 p.m. in the Moot Courtroom (A59) at the Case Western Reserve University School of Law.

Georgetown University O'Neill Institute for National and Global Health Law

Conferences & Activities

The O'Neill Institute continues to reflect the importance of public and private law in health policy analysis. The essential vision for the O'Neill Institute rests upon the proposition that the law has been, and will remain, a fundamental tool for solving critical health problems in our local, national, and global communities.

Our annual Summer Program on Global Health Law and Governance, held June 17-21, was a great success. Under the direction of Benn McGrady, Lawrence Gostin, and Oscar Cabrera, over 40 national and international participants with an impressive range of experience and expertise undertook our week-long immersion course. This year's topic explored emerging issues in NCDs and the law. For additional information about this year's program and information about our upcoming Summer Program, please visit <http://www.law.georgetown.edu/oneillinstitute/summerprogram/>.

If you'd like to stay up to date with the O'Neill Institute, please check our website, www.oneillinstitute.org, sign up for our listserv, and follow us on Facebook.

Global Health Law LL.M. Programs

Georgetown Law is now accepting applications for our Global Health Law LL.M. Program and our Global Health Law and International Institutions Program, jointly offered with the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies (IHEID) in Geneva, Switzerland.

In addition, the O'Neill Institute is further developing its curriculum and programs in Food and Drug Law and the Affordable Care Act.

For more information about Georgetown's Global Health Law programs, please visit <http://www.law.georgetown.edu/graduate/globalhealth.htm>. Please feel free to contact Georgetown's Global Health Law LL.M. Program Director, Tanya Baytor (teb39@law.georgetown.edu) with any questions.

Hamline University School of Law, Health Law Institute

Announcements:

Hamline Law's three renowned institutes – business law, dispute resolution, and health law – offer renewable full-ride scholarships to incoming students who express a demonstrated interest in those specialized areas. After meeting with institute directors, students selected for the institute scholarships may be eligible for further opportunities such as research assistantships, externships, and alumni mentors.

Honors & Awards:

The Minnesota Business Magazine named the Hamline Health Law Institute as a finalist in their 2013 Leaders in Health Care Awards Education & Workforce Development category. This category recognizes organizations that are significantly helping to engage and train workers for the future of Minnesota's health care industry.

Thaddeus Pope, HLI Director, has been awarded a $50,000 grant from the Greenwall Foundation to fund a new bioethics grants program, "Making a Difference in Real-World Bioethics Dilemmas."

Curriculum:

The Hamline Health Law Institute is pleased to offer a variety of specialty, condensed courses in J-Term and Summer 2014. Courses include: HIPAA Privacy (online), Food Law, Fraud and Abuse, Elder Law, Biotechnology Policy, and the Health Care Compliance Summer Institute.

The award-winning Online Health Care Compliance Certificate Program is now accepting applications for its next cohort of students beginning in May 2014. Our in-depth, 12-credit program can be completed in just one year and combines online learning, with a low-residency format to create hands-on and interactive simulations.

Hamline's new Master's in the Study of Law is now offered with the option of two concentrations: Health Care Compliance or Conflict Resolution.

Upcoming Events:

(Most events qualify for CLE credit and are webcast.)

Student Engagement:

The Health Care Compliance Association (HCCA) chose Rob Tungseth and Tescia Veldhouse to serve as interns during the Spring 2013 semester, and they were instrumental in helping HCCA bring its 2,000-document Resource Library online in August. They were also asked to travel to Maryland to help Minneapolis-based HCCA at its biggest event of the year, the 17th Annual Compliance Institute. Rob and Tescia were featured as the cover story of the November 2013 issue of Compliance Today, a publication distributed every month to more than 9,000 compliance professionals across the United States.

Harvard Law School, The Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology, & Bioethics

The Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology, and Bioethics at Harvard Law School has a number of announcements to share for the 2013 calendar year: Fellows and Other Affiliates:

We continue to host outstanding Academic Fellows (<http://petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/fellows/academic-fellowship>) seeking tenure-track faculty positions in the areas of health law policy, biotechnology, and bioethics. This year, two of the Center's Fellows are on the job market, Nicholson Price (<http://petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/fellows/bio/nicholson-price>) and Jeffrey Skopek (<http://petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/fellows/bio/skopek-jeffrey>); Matthew Lawrence (<http://petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/fellows/bio/lawrence-matthew-j-b>) will be on the market in 2014.

We are currently seeking applications for the next academic fellowship year to begin in Summer 2014. Applications are due November 18, 2013; additional details can be found here: <http://petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/fellows/academic-application>.

Each year, the Center also hosts several student fellows (<http://petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/fellows/student-fellowship>), who are graduate students from around Harvard University working on independent scholarship under the mentorship of Petrie-Flom affiliates. In addition, we host visiting scholars at various stages of their academic careers (<http://petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/fellows/visitors>), and run a student internship program (<http://petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/student-resources/internships>). Finally, this year, we have begun an affiliated faculty program to bring together diverse faculty from around Harvard who share our fields of academic interest (<http://petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/about/affiliated-faculty>).

Online Resources:

The Petrie-Flom Center recently launched a new website (<http://petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/>), which seeks to become the go-to place for news, scholarship, commentary, and other information on health law policy, biotechnology, and bioethics. Our new site continues to provide information about the Center, our fellows and affiliates, events and conferences, our blog, and the like, but now highlights key national and international news stories in our focus areas, offers a resource page with primers on various issues under our umbrella; provides information about related resources throughout Harvard; and will eventually link to career resources and job postings.

We also host a collaborative blog, Bill of Health (<http://blogs.law.harvard.edu/billofhealth/>), featuring a variety of regular and guest bloggers from the Petrie-Flom Center, Harvard, and beyond. Since our launch in September 2012, nearly 92,000 unique visitors have come to the site from all over the world. The posts – several per day – cover such topics as abortion, human subjects and animal research, cloning, conflicts of interest, conscience, reproductive health and technology, biotechnology, disability, the doctor-patient relationship, end-of-life issues, enhancement, FDA regulation and pharmaceutical policy, the First Amendment, genetics, global health, GMO food, health care finance, health care reform, health information technology, intellectual property, medical privacy, medical safety and quality, medical tourism, mental health, neuroscience, obesity, organ donation, personal responsibility for health, research misconduct, resource allocation, stem cells, and vaccines, among a variety of others. We host online symposia, and also regularly post information regarding upcoming events of interest, funding opportunities, and job announcements. We encourage substantial dialogue through online comments, and we welcome guest posts and cross-posts to related blogs. If you're interested in joining us as a regular contributor or guest blogger, please contact us at petrie-flom@law.harvard.edu.

Sponsored Research:

Beginning this year, the Petrie-Flom Center has taken steps toward involvement in a variety of sponsored research projects that will take advantage of the law and ethics expertise our affiliates have to offer. For example, in January 2013, it was announced that the National Football League Players Association plans to award a Harvard team of which the Petrie-Flom Center is a part $100M for a 10-year research initiative (<http://www.law.harvard.edu/news/2013/01/related-content/petrie-flom-center-harvard-hms-nflpa-program.html>).

* * *

Journal of Law and Biosciences:

This year, the Petrie-Flom Center at Harvard Law School, in collaboration with colleagues at Duke and Stanford Law Schools, will introduce a new peer-reviewed journal called the Journal of Law and Biosciences, published by Oxford University Press. Upon launch, I. Glenn Cohen (Petrie-Flom Center faculty co-director) will serve as co-Editor-in-Chief, alongside Nita Farahany (Duke) and Hank Greeley (Stanford). The journal will be the first truly peer-reviewed, interdisciplinary academic legal journal focused exclusively on the intersection of law and advances in the biosciences. We plan to publish both original, mid-length articles and shorter response pieces, as well as “new development” pieces written by graduate students at each of the sponsoring schools, offering brief summaries of and commentary on recent legislation, regulation, and case law relevant to the biosciences in order to provide a resource to readers looking to stay up-to-date in the field. The journal will be Open Access, and in most cases, articles will be published immediately online once they have completed the editorial process. For more information, please contact igcohen@law.harvard.edu.

Conference Announcements and Call for Papers/Presentations:

Behavioral Economics, Law, and Health Policy
Friday and Saturday, May 2-3, 2014
Harvard Law School, Cambridge, MA

The Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology, and Bioethics at Harvard Law School is pleased to announce plans for our annual conference, this year entitled: "Behavioral Economics, Law, and Health Policy."

Conference Description

Richard H. Thaler and Cass R. Sunstein's book "*Nudge: Improving Decisions About Health, Wealth, and Happiness*" brought behavioral economics to the masses, beginning a discussion of libertarian paternalism and the many ways that "choice architects" can help nudge people to make better choices for themselves without forcing certain outcomes on anyone. Some of their examples fall in the realm of health policy, as is also the case of Daniel Kahneman's recent book, "*Thinking, Fast and Slow*," which examines various cognitive errors people make in their judgments, choices, and conclusions, as well as how we might correct them. But the conversation has only just begun.

Building on the success of the behavioral economics movement, this conference (and possibly an edited volume) will further develop the scholarly discussion by focusing on key issues in health law policy, bioethics, and biotechnology. We welcome submissions on both broad conceptual questions and more specific policy applications. Potential topics might include:

- Are there features unique to health and health care that prevent individuals, groups, and policymakers from making the best decisions? What is a "best" decision, i.e., whose perspective should be paramount?
- What types of barriers exist to rational decision making in the health care context, and what does rational decision making look like here?

Is exploitation of framing effects, default rules, nudges, and other elements of choice architecture appropriate when it comes to human health, or is this an area where pure autonomy should reign encourages applications from those who intend to pursue careers as tenure-track law professors, but will consider any applicant who demonstrates an interest and ability to produce outstanding scholarship at the intersection of law and health policy, bioethics, or biotechnology during the term of the fellowship. Applicants will be evaluated by the quality and probable significance of their research proposals, and by their record of academic and professional achievement.

APPLICATION: Applications will be accepted from September 16, 2013 through November 18, 2013. Please note that applications submitted before November 18 will not be reviewed early.

For more information, see the full call for applications (<http://petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/fellows/academic-application>) or contact Administrative Director Cristine Hutchison-Jones, chutchisonjones@law.harvard.edu.

Public Health Law Research

The Public Health Law Research 2014 Annual Meeting will be held January 15-17, 2014 in Atlanta, Georgia. The meeting's theme is "Measuring what Matters." The PHLR Annual Meeting provides a forum for current PHLR grantees and others interested in the field to share research progress and findings, discuss methodological concerns and innovations, and identify effective means through which to disseminate research results to inform the practice and policy debate. We are now accepting abstracts and applications for a junior scholar travel scholarship. More information is available here: <http://publichealthlawresearch.org/2014-Annual-Meeting>.

Saint Louis University School of Law, Center for Health Law Studies

Recent Program News & Events:

The Fall 2013 issue of the SAINT LOUIS UNIVERSITY JOURNAL OF HEALTH LAW AND POLICY published the proceedings the Center's 30th anniversary symposium "Health Reform: The Act, Decision and Election," featuring articles by Paul Starr as well as Brietta Clark, Tim Greaney, Sandy Johnson, Sara Rosenbaum and Sidney Watson.

Funded by a grant from the Missouri Foundation for Health, the Center added a new position – Health Law and Policy Fellow. The Fellow provides legal analysis, strategy and support for grassroots organizations working for Medicaid expansion and implementation of the Affordable Care Act in Missouri. The Fellow also mentors law students in the Center's Grassroots Health Advocacy courses, which are designed to develop the next generation of health advocates. The Center welcomed Lisa D'Souza as its first Health Law and Policy Fellow. Before joining the Center's faculty, Lisa worked as an assistant public defender and as a non-profit civil legal services lawyer for Medicaid enrollees, migrant farmworkers, and other vulnerable communities.

Margaret Donnelly also joined the Center as a Health Policy Scholar. Ms. Donnelly is the former Director of Missouri's Department of Health and Senior Services and a former member of the Missouri's legislature. She teaches and mentors students as part of the Center's Grassroots Health Advocacy courses.

In cooperation with ASLME, the Center hosted its 11th annual Health Law Scholars Workshop in October. Senior health law scholars from the Center and from around the country commented on works-in-progress by four junior colleagues selected by a national committee of faculty based on responses to a call for abstracts. At this year's workshop, works-in-progress were presented by:

- Issac D. Buck, Assistant Professor of Law, Mercer University School of Law
- Anna B. Laakmann, Assistant Professor of Law, Lewis and Clark Law School
- Katherine T. Vukadin, Associate Professor of Law, Thurgood Marshall School of Law
- Diana R.H. Winters, Associate Professor of Law and Dean's Fellow, Indiana University Robert H. McKinney School of Law

In addition to SLU faculty, participating senior faculty included:

- Alta Charo, University of Wisconsin Law School
- Nathan Cortez, Southern Methodist University Dedman School of Law
- Barry Furrow, Drexel University Earle Mack School of Law

- Dayna Matthew, University of Colorado School of Law

Health Law Semester in Washington DC:

In January 2014, the Center will send another group of health law students to Washington D.C. to earn credit working full-time on health law matters in federal agencies. The program has placed students with the General Counsel to the HHS Office of the Inspector General, HHS Office of General Counsel, the VA's Offices of General Counsel and of Risk Management, the Antitrust Division of DOJ, the FTC, and the Public Health Division of HHS.

Conference Announcements:

The Center will host its 26th annual health law symposium on March 28, 2014, which will focus on issues in long-term care, including the following speakers:

- Jack Boese, Of Counsel, Fried Frank
- Judy Feder, Professor of Public Policy, Georgetown University
- David Grabowski, Professor of Health Care Policy, Harvard Medical School
- Malcolm Harkins, Partner, Proskauer Rose
- Marshall Kapp, Florida State University College of Law

The proceedings of both symposia will be published in upcoming issues of the SAINT LOUIS UNIVERSITY JOURNAL OF HEALTH LAW AND POLICY.

The Center hosts a terrific line-up of distinguished speakers in 2013-2014:

- James Kimmey, M.D., M.P.H., Professor Emeritus of Health Administration and Policy SLU's College of Public Health & Social Justice and the past President and CEO of Missouri Foundation for Health. Presently he is an Executive-in-Residence with the CPHSJ.
- Ron Pollock, J.D., Founding Executive Director, Families USA.
- James Sheehan, J.D., Chief Integrity Officer and Executive Deputy Commissioner for the New York City Department of Social Services and former U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

Practitioner-in-Residence:

James Sheehan, J.D. will also join the Center's faculty as its practitioner-in-residence. Mr. Sheehan is one of the nation's leading experts on healthcare fraud and abuse. As a US attorney, he acted as lead counsel for numerous complex litigation suits involving prescription drugs, quality care and predatory lending. He also served as New York state's first Medicaid Inspector General where he was responsible for the implementation of the country's first mandatory compliance program for Medicaid providers. This plan was later used as a model to create the federal program under the ACA.

Seton Hall University, Center for Health & Pharmaceutical Law & Policy

New Faculty

MICHAEL B. MCCULLEY, ESQ. APPOINTED DISTINGUISHED PRACTITIONER-IN-RESIDENCE

Seton Hall University School of Law has appointed Michael B. McCulley, Esq. as Distinguished Practitioner-in-Residence for the Center for Health & Pharmaceutical Law & Policy. Mr. McCulley is former Assistant General Counsel to Johnson & Johnson, and he joins Seton Hall Law after 30 years of in-house health law experience with J&J. He joined the company in 1982 and became its first specialized medical device lawyer, helping to build the global regulatory practice for the Medical Device and Diagnostics business.

Grants

MICROSOFT CORPORATION AWARDS GRANT

Microsoft Corporation awarded a grant to the Center for Health & Pharmaceutical Law & Policy to support Frank Pasquale and Tara Ragone's research into protecting patient privacy in the age of cloud computing.

NICHOLSON FOUNDATION GRANT SUPPORTS WORK WITH NEW JERSEY HEALTH CARE QUALITY INSTITUTE

John Jacobi, Kate Greenwood, and Tara Ragone are working with the New Jersey Health Care Quality Institute and Applied Medical Software, Inc. to provide legal and public policy analysis for community groups and health care providers interested in New Jersey's Medicaid Accountable Care Organizations. This work is funded by a grant from the Nicholson Foundation.

Healthcare Compliance Executive Education

U.S. HEALTHCARE COMPLIANCE CERTIFICATION PROGRAM

October 14 - 17, 2013 and June 10-13, 2013

Location: Seton Hall Law School

The Healthcare Compliance Certification Program (HCCP) is a four-day educational program for compliance professionals and lawyers in the pharmaceutical and medical device industries. The Program addresses the issues faced by the pharmaceutical and medical device industries in complying with such standards as the Office of the Inspector General's (OIG) Compliance Program Guidance for Pharmaceutical Manufacturers, the PhRMA Code, and the AdvaMed Code of Ethics. The program immerses attendees in the statutes, regulations, and other guidances that comprise the body of law known as "fraud and abuse law," as well as other health care related laws and regulations which will help them understand the legal underpinnings of the compliance programs they develop and enforce.

EUROPEAN HEALTHCARE COMPLIANCE CERTIFICATION PROGRAM

November 18-22, 2013 and June 24 - 28, 2013

Location: Sciences Po, Paris, France

This intensive educational and training program addresses the myriad legal, regulatory and compliance issues faced by pharmaceutical, biotech and medical device manufacturers doing business in Europe. The program is geared toward legal, regulatory and compliance professionals and advisors working within the European pharmaceutical, biotech and medical device industries.

ASIA-PACIFIC HEALTHCARE COMPLIANCE PROGRAM

March 04 - 07, 2013

Location: Singapore, Raffles City Convention Center

The inaugural Asia-Pacific Healthcare Compliance Program was hosted in Singapore in March 2013. Program participants hailed from 11 different countries including Australia, China, India, Japan, Malaysia, South Korea and Vietnam. Taught by regional faculty, in-house compliance officers and legal experts, the curriculum tackled legal and compliance cross-border issues such as anticorruption law, competition law, data privacy and industry codes of conduct. These issues, combined with varied enforcement regimes and cultural differences, make the Asia-Pacific region a unique and challenging environment in which to do business.

Online Education

Over the past year, Seton Hall Law added an online option for its M.S.J. degree students, giving them the opportunity to attend classes in person, online, or both. In addition, Seton Hall has expanded its online Graduate Certificate offerings and now offers multi-course certificate programs in Health & Hospital Law, Intellectual Property Law, Life Sciences Law and Human Resources Law. The certificate programs are 8-week non-degree programs designed for individuals in highly regulated industries who seek a greater understanding of key aspects of their fields.

Other Programs

EXECUTIVE EDUCATION COURSE ON INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY, DIPLOMACY, AND GLOBAL PUBLIC HEALTH

February 13-15, 2013

Location: Geneva, Switzerland

This intensive three-day course was jointly organized by Seton Hall Law School and the Global Health Programme of the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies in Geneva. Designed for individuals whose primary expertise is health or diplomacy, the course included an overview of health and IP issues, followed by sessions on topics such as TRIPS and global public health, alternative mechanisms to promote research related to neglected diseases, and counterfeit medical products.

NAVIGATING THE BIOSIMILARS LANDSCAPE

February 19, 2013

Location: Seton Hall Law School

This timely program offered key insights into the rapidly evolving biosimilars landscape. Topics included litigation under the Biologics Price Competition and Innovation Act, the patentability of monoclonal antibodies and the impact of the America Invents Act, and the Food and Drug Administration's regulation of biosimilars. Panelists included Reza Green, Vice President, Intellectual Property, Novo Nordisk, Inc.; Jordan Paradise, Associate Professor of Law, Seton Hall Law; George Gould, Counsel, Intellectual Property, Gibbons P.C. and former Chief Patent Counsel, Hoffman-LaRoche; Lisa Wang, Director, Intellectual Property, Gibbons P.C.; and Estelle J. Tsevdos, Director, Intellectual Property, Gibbons P.C. and former Patent Counsel and Manager, Biotechnology Section, American Cyanamid.

LIFE SCIENCES COLLEGE: PHARMACEUTICAL AND COMPLIANCE FUNDAMENTALS

February 26, 2013

Location: Sidley Austin, New York

This event was co-sponsored by the Center for Health & Pharmaceutical Law & Policy and held at Sidley Austin's Manhattan offices. The program addressed key legal and business challenges facing pharmaceutical companies, and included updates on recent regulatory and industry developments. Expert faculty included, among others, Seton Hall Law Professors Kathleen Boozang and Jordan Paradise; Sidley Austin Partners Jim Stansel, Paul Kalb, William Sarraile and Anna Spencer; government prosecutors Maureen Ruane from the U.S. Attorney's Office for the District of New Jersey and Heidi Wendel from the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Southern District of New York; and industry experts Frank Bigley, Chief Compliance Officer, Novo Nordisk; LaDonna Steiner, Associate General Counsel, Purdue Pharma; and Freddy Jimenez, Assistant General Counsel, Johnson & Johnson.

ADVISING THE WHITE HOUSE ON BIOETHICS POLICY: THE BUSH YEARS

March 13, 2013

Location: Seton Hall Law School

The Center for Health & Pharmaceutical Law & Policy hosted a public lecture by Professor O. Carter Snead, Distinguished Visiting Scholar from Notre Dame Law School, recounting his experience as General Counsel to the President's Council on Bioethics under President George W. Bush. Professor Snead discussed the Council's research and recommendations regarding the regulation of new biotechnologies and their effects on assisted reproduction, stem cell research and genetics. Professor Snead is a recognized legal scholar in bioethics and has served as the U.S. delegation's leader and chief negotiator for the Universal Declaration on Bioethics and Human Rights, the U.S. government's Permanent Observer to the Council of Europe's Steering Committee on Bioethics, and is currently a member of UNESCO's International Bioethics Committee.

HIPAA, HITECH & BEYOND: PROTECTING HEALTHCARE DATA IN OUR CYBER WORLD

April 19, 2013

Location: Seton Hall Law School

This program examined the most current issues, enforcement trends, and regulations relevant to healthcare data privacy experts who counsel hospitals, providers, and other healthcare facilities.

ASLME'S 36TH ANNUAL HEALTH LAW PROFESSORS CONFERENCE

June 6-8, 2013

Location: Seton Hall Law School

For the third time in the conference's 36-year history, Seton Hall Law was honored to host the Annual American Society of Law, Medicine & Ethics (ASLME) Health Law Professors Conference, held in June 2013. The 175 health law professors and scholars, who attended from schools of law, medicine and public health around the nation, were apparently undeterred by the simultaneous arrival of an uninvited guest, Tropical Storm Andrea. Despite the rain, the three-day conference agenda was bursting with over 30 substantive sessions that highlighted issues at the forefront of law and medicine, and provided essential updates on recent changes to the law, including health care reform and health data protection.

UC Hastings College of the Law & UCSF/UC Hastings Consortium on Law, Science & Health Policy*Program News:

After three years of program development by the UCSF/UC Hastings Consortium on Law, Science & Health Policy, UCSF and UC Hastings this year formalized their partnership by signing an Affiliation Agreement. Through the Consortium, both institutions are dedicated to advancing law, science & health policy through close collaboration in educational programs, joint research, and clinical training & service.

UC Hastings launched its Medical-Legal Partnership for Seniors Clinic with UCSF Medical Center. The clinic is led by Yvonne Troya (JD), Sarah Hooper (JD), Carolyn Welty (MD), and Helen Kao (MD) and is offered to law students in fall and spring each year. The clinic was featured in the New York Times in March.

UC Hastings and the Consortium welcomed the inaugural class of the Master of Studies in Law for Health Care Professionals.

The Consortium is currently developing a jointly-conferred degree with UCSF called the Master of Science in Health Law & Policy.

Upcoming Conferences:

The Consortium will host the annual American Society of Law, Medicine & Ethics Health Law Professor's Conference in June this coming year.

The Consortium will host a conference entitled "CHALLENGES IN PROMOTING CHILDREN'S HEALTH AND MENTAL HEALTH: THE ROLE OF THE LAW" on March 28 and 29th at UC Hastings College of the Law.
