Thaddeus Mason Pope

Thaddeus Mason Pope, JD, PhD, HEC-C, is a foremost expert on medical law and clinical ethics. He focuses on patient rights and healthcare decision making, especially at the end of life.

A fellow of the Hastings Center and previously both a Fulbright Canada Research Chair in Health Law, Policy, and Ethics, and a repeat visiting scholar with the Brocher Foundation in Switzerland; Pope is a Professor at Mitchell Hamline School of Law in Saint Paul, Minnesota.

While Professor Pope serves in a range of consulting capacities, he has been particularly influential through extensive high-impact scholarship. Ranked among the Top 20 most-cited health law scholars, Pope has over 350 publications in medical, law, and bioethics journals. His books include:

- The Right to Die: The Law of End-of-Life Decision Making
- Voluntarily Stopping Eating and Drinking: A Compassionate, Widely Available Option for Hastening Death

His Medical Futility Blog has received over 8 million pageviews. And he writes for both UpToDate and The Merck Manual.

Particularly notable among Professor Pope's publications are policy guidance statements on ethics in critical care for major professional medical societies, and clinical practice guidelines on topics such as brain death and medical aid in dying.

Apart from scholarship, Pope has been a legal consultant and expert witness in court cases involving end-of-life treatment.
